HONGEONG, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1892.

THE RIZAL CASE.

THE Spanish authorities have stated their case very fairly in the matter of Jose RIZAL, now imprisoned or dead at Jolo on a charge of sedition. According to the story of the Consul in Hongkong, RIZAI was promised immunity from punishment for his past anti-clerical warfare, and was told that he might safely come to Manila to settle his family affairs and negotiate TONIC WATER. for the transplanting of a band of his friends and relatives to Borneo, under the protection of the British flag. So much was clearly understood, and Señor-Ortiz, the consul, with commendable candour confirmed it. Of course, the Philippine authorities did not wish the colony to be transplanted as proposed; but it was strictly according to law, local and international.

Rizat then went over to Manila with his sister, and on arrival there certain papers were found in that lady's baggage which you take me for a bank clerk!" constituted an offence against the law of the place. Here occurs the only discropancy between the accounts of Senor Outiz and of our private informants-the latter say that the documents were planted by spies of the Ecclesiastics, the former denies it. The immediate connection of the Bishop matters little—the Church as body is accused, not any individual. Rizal really did take the papers into Manila, we have done with him, for would be an imprudent act such as would deprive him of any right to pose as moderate and honest patriot. But if the papers were planted by sples, then the Church is guilty of a gross outrage such as places its leaders on a level with the treacherous savages of the South Carolinas in the days of cannibalism, and any civilised man would be justified failing legal readress, in making war to the knife, a war of extermination, against people who practise this hideous and deadly cunning.

completely, one way or the other, in the interests of all concerned. The man was not yet a British subject, but had applied to the Government of North Borneo for admission, and was thus in a transitory state, so to speak, which must surely in international law justify the British Copsul at Manila in taking up the case vigorously. In the absence of any definite provision in the a fine of $3 each for behaving in a disorderly Angle-Spanish treaties which would meet the case of an intending emigrant, justice declares that the country which the individual proposed to adopt is interested and should be represented in Court during criminal proceedings. The case likely to be important hereafter, in view of the fact that the discontented Filipinos were seeking the protection of the British flag are not likely to be made more content by recent occurrences but will in all probability be the more eager to emigrate; they would be a valuable acquisition to North Borneo, which only needs suitable labour in order to become a flourishing and wealthy country; yet they are sure to meet with he requests, that if certain Scotchmen and other drinking anything on the premises but the com- in this respect at any rate Gilman's can laugh at impediments, and if the Manila authorities are not sharply called to account, British North Borneo will lose a chance of being permanently and materially benefited in the same way as England was benefited ... Messrs. Henermann, Herbst & Co. by the religious refugees, the Huguenots and Lombards and Flemings, who laid the foundations of its everlasting prosperity.

THE promised exciting tug-of-war, between picked teams of the Shropshire Regiment and Hongkong Police, which has been the leading topic in athletic circles for some time past, will not come off, the military contingent having weakened at the last moment and raised difficulties which are anything but sportsmanlike. It appears that the "Shropshire Boys," in response to the Bobbles' challenge to pull with or without boots, for love or for any stake up to $20 per man, insisted on the aggregate weights of each team being equal, which about proposition the Police could not possibly agree to. OWING to the unusual amount of rain that has fallen in the neighbouring provinces of Kwangtung and Fuhkien during the past two months all likelikood of a failure of the autumn rice crops has happily passed away and the masses are once more assured of chesp food during the coming winter. The local and Canton grain markets have been affected by the comparatively recent improvement in crop prospects—so much so, in fact, as to cause a considerable drop in the price of the Chinese "staple of life," the rates for rice now ranging as low as $2.95 for first quality (white), $2.33 to $2.36 for " seconds," and $2 to $2.10 for "commons," The market is weak at these quotations and it is probable with the continuation of imports from Salgon, and Bangkok, prices will drop about ten per cent in the course of month or so. ON VOLUNTEERING GRANNY"

The Hengkong Artillery Volunteers are getting up a subscription to purchase and frame for exhibition at their head-quarters a copy of the Daily Press of to-day (Sept. 3rd, 1801). This Illustrious publication declares that "the local Volunteer Artillery Corps is the only one in existence at present," which will be news to the Singapore S.V.A., the Shanghal ditto, and a few ! thousand similar corps. Then, after a few vague sentences in which the grammar is hideous and the sense invisible, Granny comes out with the bold announcement that what the Hongkong V.A. wants is a band. "That, of course, is always an attractive appanage to a force," says our contemporary-moral, join the Shropshiresor the Lusitanians ! "The present local Artillery Corps has had to deplote the want of a band since its first formation in 1878," says the Daily Press. The picture suggested, of a drum-andfife band, with Gunner R-e working the big drum, Major McC-m on the file, and Colonel W-rr-s Smith leading on to death or victory, with a strong accent on death—the prospect is one that would fire up what Granny calls military ardour languishing in the civilianbreast" like a ton of bricks. But, says the dear old lady, "the great question of clothes has also had its place in the matter," (English, by the way, is an unknown tongue in the Wyndham Street Ink Slingery.) The great question of clothes to clothe, or not to clothe; that is the question; whether 'tis nobler for a man to suffer. the stings and arrows of the blank mosquitoor get your trousers mended. Yes, Granns the great question of clothes does stand in the way: in this climate the only comfortable dress is the bathing costume, and military prejudices are against that as a working rig for artillary. "The uniform provided for the H.K.V.A. is not too attractive," Granny opines; there should be some more spangles and gold lace about it, with a plentiful supply of scarlet,—and padding for weak chests; the padding must not be forgotten, It is more valuable for a Volunteer than for a morning newspaper. "The Artillery Volunteer can hardly be pronounced a smart figure comparing well with the regulars," as Granny further declares. What's the matter with kilts? Or how would a five-of-hearts on a white tunic do? Or a pretty, tasteful combination of blue and yellow. like the chair coolies of a certain big policeman?

"Then again," says the good old lady, "the corps has never been sufficiently representative," which calls to mind Mask Twain's criticism of the mummy-" Bring us a nice fresh corpse, not a second-hand thing 3,000 years old; let us have a decent respectable modern corpse, or we'll make one of you!" The Daily Prace says that the mercantile, banking, and professional elements have been mainly conspicuous by their absence in the ranks. (" absence in the ranks" is good-much better than "absence from the ranks ") and that latterly the ranks have been recruited from the stores presumably the Military Stores I. Rummaging among old guns and cast-off uniforms in the Army Store Department for a stray rank or two ! And finally the D. P. announces that "the numbers have naturally dwindled slowly down," instead of dwindling up Arguing on these premises, the Daily Press says that the German and Portuguese communities ought to be invited to join, so that in case of war the enemy would defend us from itself....Then, " the uniform' should be good and handsome"-d la Salvation Army-"drills light," for of course the less drilled men are niways the more efficient, "parades frequent," since there is always a frantic demand for parades, and a full muster every time, oh yes ! "shooting competitions inaugurated? which should satisfy Mr. E. Robinson that he has lived in vain and that the weekly contests of the Association for which he works so hard are utterly useless; "a band formed," with the Daily Press, coolio as head trumpeter and our chum Sillypot as banjobanger; "and colours worked and presented"design, a beldame's cap, gules, on a goat rampant azure's motto "Which is the Way Out ?" In conclusion, Granny urges that the corps should be "dressed by the time the cool season sets in 1" which in the interests of decency and the tailoring trade is highly commendable, though it is as well to remember the old cookery-book formula, " First catch your corps," and dress it afterwards.

TO THE EMPOR OF THE "HOMERONG TELEGRAPE." SIR.—There are several statements in the Daily Press to-day which are incorrect, and in the interests of the Club they ought to be put right. I therefore beg that you will make these few corrections, as the morning paper does not publish any more until Monday next.

First, the conditions of weather were no "most fayourable," nor did the rain hold off The water was very cold, as all of us who were in it know, and the wind was bitterly cold for those who had to wait for their races in scinty clothing. The weather was so threatening that the attendance was only about two-thirds of the average of other years. Next, there were several circumstances which "militated against complete success." Several items have been omitted from this year's programme-the breast stroke race, duck hunting, and others. One circumstance which ""militate" considerably was the low state of the lide to of course, it is not easy to avoid that; but it does affect the sports badly. as the water is dirty- the sewage is plentiful and the diving is necessarily inferior. But the most serious misrepresentation of the Daily Press to that the swimmers in the Championship got off to a good start. They did nothing of the sort. "Two, at least, went before the word was given, and if the starter had been a man instead of a half-witted idiot they would have been called back, and would have paid the penalty of their unfair conduct by starting again partly exhausted. The cheating of the competitors in the two big races, in the matter of starting, was disgraceful, and centrasted very unfavourably with the honest starts of the smaller swimmers, especially the boys of the

HOW TO KEEP SMALLPOX OUT OF A USTRALÏA.

There are many hundreds of Australian medical men who have never seen smallpox and would not know it if they did see it. There are many scores of thousands of Australians who look upon the disease as extinct, who repard i much as they do the plague or the Black Death. and chafe mightily at the precautions which are adopted to prevent its entrance or to stamp is out when it manages to creep within our lines. This it often does, and will do more frequently I per cent. as the speed of steamers increares and voyages are shorter. When it does come we scream and swear and hunt down the victim and quarantine him or her, rather brutally now and then, and sometimes pay beavy compensation when we have nabbed the wrong man, and then sit down discovered. and plume ourselves on the vigorous measures by which we ustamped out" the enemy. But, excepting in our moments of panic, we can hardly be brought to believe in the enemy's existence. We affect to think-s good many of us-that the long-continued ravages of smallpox were merely due to the defective sanitary arrangements of our forefathers. and to the crowded condition of their cities; and | rend, the capital of Russian Turkestan, by a we treat it as something that will disappear as mankind learns better how to live. So, for that matter, will typhold, consumption, and insanity, but just now it cannot be too clearly understood that our partial immunity is due to conditions which are rapidly disappearing. Smallpox always raging in Africa, where overcrowding, at any rate, is not a rule of life. It is rampant in Chins, and sovereign in Ceylon, whence, indeed, comes our most recent danger, and it is always hovering about those islands of the southern archipelago whence the Kanakas are presently to be brought into Queensland to cultivate godilness and the sugarcane.:

Small-pox is one of the many gifts which the Holy Land conferred upon the Crusaders who took it back with them to Europe, where reigned unchecked and scattered death broadcast for more than 700 years. Indeed, even after Jenner discovered, in 1799, a counteracting disorder, cow-pox, which, up to this time, has proved the best preventive, it took so years hard fighting to reduce smallpox within manageable limits in England alone. It is only within the lifetime of the present generation that British medical men have felt themselves fairly able to cope with the malady or that the sight of opened in Biemen recently, a pock-marked person has ceased to be common in the London streets. Even yet con- on all the rallways of Great Britain and Ireland signments of the disorder come regularly to during the whole of last year. that city from Smyrna, and Aleppo, from Constantinople and Cairo : and no man who boards a sailing ship on its arrival from the Levent can be sure that he will not catch it himself or convey it to his family. And as small-pox is the most contagious of all febrile diseases, the most dangerous, the most distressing, the most debilitating and the most disgusting, it can be easily understood that it is by no means a welcome or desirable visitor. It makes the victim an object of horror to those who love him best. and of dread and loathing to those who are other- I state that wages are again going up in the wise always sympathetic and helpful. quietly off to limbo when he was first attacked. Absolute and perfect isolation is still the only means of preventing the disease from decimating the community in which it appears, since there is no moment, from that in which the sufferer receives the contagion, until that in which he is pronounced perfectly well, when he may not communicate it to anybody about him. He infects the air he breathes, the clothes he wears, the furniture be uses, the house he inhabits, the wind that passes over him, and the ground he freads upon. If his own case is a light one the chances are that he will communicate a heavier and more virulent form of his ailment to any receptive subject, and the result is that no one comes within hall of him who can possibly keep away. If by chance it breaks out in a crowded London court or alley inhabited by the very poor, there is nothing to be done but to imprison the wretched people in their miscrable homes until it has passed away, and the attendants have to share the imprisonment and take their chances. Those who have been succissfully and recently vaccinated or have themselves suffered from the disease escape, but even medical science can do little for the sufferer who is once infected. If the terrible irritation can be allayed, the air passages kept open and the strength maintained, the victim may live through it, and to these ends the doctors address their utmost skill, very often over and the nature of the attack is unmistakeable, there are still from fourteen to twenty-one days to be passed before the crisis arrives and the balance inclines towards life or death.

If we wish to keep smallpox out of Australia we must fight 'it at the outports. Our first quarantine station should not be in Port Phillip nor at Port Jackson, but at Colombo, Before the Australian liner starts from that port, the strictest medical investigation should be made in order that no person may embark who has placed himself in danger. There is no danger at present of persons who come more than a forinight's fourney bringing infection without the knowledge of the medical inspectors. man who left England with the seeds of the disease in his constitution would be in a fal way to convalescence before he could arrive here, if he lived to complete the voyage. the people who come from infected places within a fortnight's sail of our shores we have to regard with suspicion, and there ought not to be much difficulty in arranging for proper supervision of these persons before they begin their journey.-

MR. GLADSTONE AS A DARING DINER OUT.

The London Court Journal says:-" Mr. Gladstone dines out with a regularity and daring that could not be excelled by a man of half his years. One who meets him often at these gastronomic tournaments says that Mr. G.'s participation in their enjoyments is by no means perfunctory. Some men past 60, still dining out, enjoy themselves under severe restrictions, deintily picking their way through the menui-Mr. G. past 80, is apparently under no such restrictions. He ests what comes, generally right through the manu, and can take his glass of port after his libation of champagne, a test from which many ardent diner out would shrink. His mental activity is on a par with his physical vigour. His conversation is a never flagging flood brimful of interest. If were only possible to reproduce a verbatim report of his conversation at a dinner-party, where the personal -surroundings-are sufficiently-interesting-to-excitehim to talk, there would be produced a volume. of interest, biographical, autobiographical, and historical. His memory is marvellous, and his power of graphically recalling an incident is the admiration of even "the gentlemen behind the chairs" Mr. Gladstone is to be congratulated on possessing a perfect liver, not all men can say the same; the slightest over indulgence in eating or drinking, sufficient with some people to upset the liver and cause bilious attacks; these eventually lead to serious disease and make the sufferer's life one contimusl misery. Timely use of Clements Toulo with an occasional dose of Dr. Fletcher's Pills will always ours the most serious cases, as shown by the proofs vouchsafed by Mr. W. Relly, Albury, N.S.W., who says: "For nearly twelve months I have been subjected to such a most distressing disease, that thought my constitution was breaking up. 'I had most acute pains in my chest, and my liver was so enlarged that I could not lie on my right side, there were also sharp pains around the kidneys combined. with severe headaches simply unbearable, causing great physical wonkness. I was treated by doctors ut only experienced temporary relief from my complicated disorders. When my condition was most critical I was persuaded to try Clements Tonic, which I took with Dr. Flotcher's pills, and after the use of the first bottle of Clements Tonio my pains vanished like magio. I used in all three bottles of Clements Tonic and two boxes of Flotcher's Pills,

CONSUMPTION, Wasting Diseases, and General Debility. Doctors disagree as to the relative value of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites; the one supplying strength and flesh-the others giving nerve power and acting as a tonic to the digestion and entire system. But in Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites the two are combined, and the effect is wonderful.
